Two Service Units Get Dietitians Education Specialists Manage Six Ways

Miss Ann Obert, Area Health Educator, reports the first Health Education Specialists are being sent to Service Units in Mississippi and southwestern Oklahoma. Choctaws in Mississippi will work with Thomas Biehler, an Oklahoman from El Reno, and Plains tribes will work with Marland Koomsa, himself a Kiowa, transferring from BIA in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Mr. Biehler has undergraduate degree from Central State College, Edmond, and completed graduate work at University of Texas.

Mr. Koomsa holds both

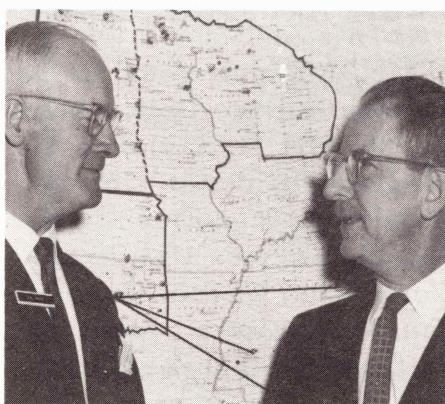

Bachelor and Master's degrees in Education from the Southwestern State College, Weatherford, Oklahoma.

Both men have public school experience and have also served Bureau of Indian Affairs' Education Branch before coming to Public Health Service for special services in Health Education.

According to Dr. Herbert Hudgins, Area Medical Officer in Charge, these men will work with medical, nursing, dietary, sanitation, social service, and other Indian Health staff in their particular Indian Health service Units, giving current

DOCTORS SHAW AND HUDGINS REVIEW AREA PROJECTS

Before a map of the United States on which black tapes indicate Okla. City Area Office administration of Indian Health in some of the southern states, Dr. James R. Shaw, Chief of Division (left) and Dr. Herbert A. Hudgins, Area Medical Officer, discuss priorities in program funds.

For instance, central tape leads to Mississippi. Descendants of the Choctaw Indians who did not come to Oklahoma (Indian Territory) during "Removal" depend entirely on the medical services provided by Indian Health under Public Health Service.

emphasis to Indian education in sanitation, nutrition, accident prevention, control of respiratory infections, such as pneumonia and influenza, as well as tuberculosis, and also control of the diarrheal diseases.

Public Health Service

works closely with Bureau of Indian Affairs, State and County health departments, Indian tribal organizations, as well as other local voluntary agencies. Education Specialists will serve as consultants in Health Education methods which best apply for helping Indians to assume community responsibility through better understanding of individual and local health programs.

Thomas Biehler will have as Service Unit Medical Officer in Charge, Dr. William A. Pettit, PHS Indian Hospital, Philadelphia, Miss.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Talking Leaves, Jan., 1961, carried article "Choctaws In Mississippi" which describes progress and problems in this Service Unit.

Indians who live on their own or tribal owned property are getting a break under new Sanitation Facilities Act. However, Choctaws whose ancestors sold the land, and who work today on that land for food, clothing, and housing as tenant farmers, are not so fortunate.

Mr. Koomsa goes to the Lawton Service Unit, where Dr. Robert M. Saylor is the Medical Officer in Charge. Oklahoma counties in the Lawton Service Unit are: Comanche, Caddo, Harmon, Jackson, Kiowa, McClain, Jefferson, Stephens, Grady, Tillman, Cotton, Garvin.

Dr. Robert M. Saylor, Medical Officer in Charge, PHS Indian Hospital, Lawton; Miss Ann Obert, Area Health Educator; and Marland Koomsa, Kiowa Indian assigned as Health Education Specialist to Lawton Service Unit, get together to plan his orientation to hospital, health stations, and sanitation facilities services.

BIA-PHS "Sing" Together!

November 1961 annual breakfast for Bureau of Indian Affairs and Public Health Service personnel to entertain members of Oklahoma Health and Welfare Association who are keen on Indian conservation, was in Tulsa at the Mayo Hotel.

Edythe Turner, Principal of Carter Seminary, Ardmore, headed a group of administrators of the eastern Oklahoma Indian schools to plan the unique program.

Students made the decorations - miniature athletic functions which require coordination of individuals.

Miss Turner managed to lead a humorous audience-participation reflection on the farce of "teamwork" as it is usually talked, but not practiced.

Main speaker was BIA's Martin Crittenden of their Washington Social Services Division. Exploiting, with his native Arkansas humor, Miss Turner's theme to the fullest, he made a neat contribution to her intention.

Waving pompon sticks, and singing despite hysterical laughter, the audience

(With apologies to Ted Koehler, lyric writer of the Leo Feist published love song of 1939)

We've come a long way together
Since we started discussing our aims,
We've weathered all kinds of weather
And we'll have to admit we've made gains.
Of course, we have all had our problems -- and
They have made us love each other more ---
We've come a long way together,
BUT WE STILL HAVE A LONG

ended the Indian breakfast with "We've Come a Long Way Together, But We Still Have a Long Way To Go!"

Attending an Indian Breakfast for first time was the new Principal Chief of the Creek Nation, W. E. (Dode) McIntosh, who is Treasurer of Tulsa County. Another Tulsan who took advantage of Health and Welfare doings was C. C. Victory, for whom humor of BIA-PHS "teamwork" seemed particularly acute. He has given much time to both Agencies.

KNOW AN INDIAN BOY OR GIRL WHO IS PARTICULARLY GIFTED IN AN ART?

"Talking Leaves" has been requested to bring readers' prompt attention to an unusual opportunity for Indian youth of artistic ability. George A. Boyce, Superintendent of the new INSTITUTE OF AMERICAN INDIAN ARTS, has had a bulletin prepared by A. K. Warren, Director of Relations, and Donald J. Morrow, Education Specialist in Training Aids, to explain the highschool and post graduate programs which are being offered. Students gifted in fine arts, crafts, dramatics, communications such as Talking Leaves, etc., will be trained to find their own proper place in modern society. Guidance and employee placement to realize potential talent development.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dreams of this type education for Indian youth were voiced a quarter century ago by Dr. W. B. Bizzell, President of The University of Oklahoma. Private funds were raised by Mrs. Oscar Brousse Jacobson so that four Kiowa boys could be taught in a unique fashion by her husband, famed painter of the Rocky Mountains. At O. U. the students were provided time, materials, advantages of libraries of art and anthropology, but no formal instruction. Under these circumstances, they evolved a type of modern plains Indian art which gained world renown for the University, and today graces such proud rooms as the reception for Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, Union Club Coffee Shop on campus at Stillwater's Oklahoma State University, and perhaps your own home. Universities in the states having high Indian population will be watching this new B.I.A. project. They will find ways to tie in to completion of the education of some of the students who emerge from INSTITUTE OF AMERICAN INDIAN ARTS.

"SPACE MEN"

Clarence M. Clarke, Real Property Officer (left) and Russell G. Simmons, Chief of Property Management Section, plot and plan for General Services' move to take advantage of the new space available to Division of Indian Health.

Area Office Rearranged

According to Executive Officer, E. V. Downing, space is being made available to Indian Health by the move of some of the other Federal agencies to the new Court House and Federal Office Building Annex.

Indian Health will remain in Post Office Building in same quarters and on same floor, but with added space there will be rearrangement of offices.

Office of Area Medical Officer in Charge and the Executive Officer will stay same as before, as will the suite for Office Services, where mail is received.

Carrying the brunt of the planning and coordinating of GSA with Indian Health personnel are Russell Simmons, Chief of Property Management and Clarence Clarke, Real Property Officer.

Maps and new telephone directories will be provided by Information Services.

Medical Records Consultant Assigned

DOROTHEA L. WATKINS
TRANSFERS IN P.H.S.

In announcing that Miss Dorothea L. Watkins, PHS Commissioned Officer, had been selected to fill vacancy of Medical Record Librarian Consultant for this five-state Area, Dr. Herbert A. Hudgins told newspapers in Service Units, "Medical Records at Public Health Service Indian hospitals are to be brought up to standards deserving national hospital accreditation."

Miss Watkins received degree in Medical Record Library Science at St. Louis University, where she also specialized in psychology and sociology.

While serving Division of Indian Health in Albuquerque Area, she helped to develop that state's Medical Record Librarian Association. Earlier assignments were with Yale University School of Public Health and University of Tennessee's John Gaston Hospital, where she was an instructor in Medical Record Practice and Procedure.

In welcoming "Miss Dee," Doctor Hudgins, whose own daughter is a Medical Record Librarian, heartily agreed that continued improvement in medical records will have direct relationship to quality of medical care. Also, that adequate records are essential to research.

CLAREMORE HAS ROTO-FILES FOR MEDICAL RECORDS

New system for housing and filing of medical records was reported by PHS Indian Hospital, Claremore, in August 1961. "Claremore Progress" the local daily newspaper, sent photographer to share good news with its readers. Above is picture of Mrs. Lorene M. Cordray, Medical Records Librarian (Supervisor); Mrs. Margaret J. Hoge, Receptionist Clerk; and J. Tomey Shopteese, Clerk-Steno, all authorized personnel to handle the 12,000 active medical charts covering both In-patients and Out-patients being served at this Indian hospital.

In Indian Health situation, with rather frequent change of medical personnel, the medical record results in better continuation of care throughout an Indian's life. With the referrals that we encourage between hospitals, schools, field clinics, and related health agencies, the medical record becomes an even more important tool in medical care.

Federal Records School Held

In-service training was proven valuable with employee response expressed in sincere gratitude, says Thomas F. Gilmore, Chief of General Services, concerning Records Disposition Workshop, planned by Office Services in December.

Instructors were from the National Archives and Records Service of General Service Administration in Fort Worth, Texas. Ivan D. Eyler, Regional Director; Odell B. Lamb of Records Management; and Burton K. Jennings, Chief of Disposal Section, introduced the new U. S. Government Correspondence Manual and explained Records Disposition using visual aids helpful to training clerical personnel.

Robert J. Evatt, Manager, and Ola Case, Assistant Manager, Office Services Section, were given full credit by Chief of General Services for their initiation of a training workshop for clerical personnel in the disposition of Federal records.

Above, they receive Binding Cases used by Finance Branch for proper filing of Vouchers in Records Disposal.

ED. NOTE: Does anyone remember happy photo of Bob and Ola in Talking Leaves, June 1958? When we introduced Evatt, new Records Analyst, by posing him in Personnel Branch showing Clerk how to file in order to make disposition of records simpler, Miss Case took full advantage of opportunity to cultivate an Area Records Disposition team!

DR. ALFRED KETCHAM WRITES LETTER TO "TALKING LEAVES"

"Without the least bit of hesitation, I have told numerous individuals that the most profitable and pleasant experience of my life was the time I spent with the fine people in Talihina," writes Dr. Alfred Ketcham from his current post in PHS as Acting Chief of the Surgery Branch of Cancer Institute, Bethesda, M. D.

"This position has been a wonderful opportunity, as we are actively engaged in extensive radical surgery as it relates to patients with advanced malignancies, and I spend much time in the laboratory with research. But my pleasure and satisfaction here will never fully equal the experience of the work with the Indian people of southeastern Oklahoma."

Doctor Ketcham serves this year on Planning Committee for USPHS Clinical Society Meeting, April 4-7, National Institutes of Health, in Bethesda, Maryland.
