Dear Publisher:

For the past six months you have not received the Indian Health Area newsletter "Talking Leaves," which is edited for Indian tribal organizations, officials of related agencies cooperating with Indian Health, and serves later as an orientation item for professional health personnel assigned by U. S. Public Health Service to the five-state Oklahoma City Area.

Our public information specialist recommends that you receive "Talking Leaves" as background information on Public Health Service administration of Indian Health, despite the fact that the newsletter is not written as newspaper copy for the general public.

If you agree, the return of the enclosed postal card will again place you on the mailing list for "Talking Leaves."

I will appreciate your continued interest in comprehensive health services for Indians.

Sincerely yours,

Jack C. Robertson
