Dear Solon:

I have your letter of the 12th instant referring to the General Motors Company strike, and the vote by a minority which resulted in the strike.

I also have the Oklahoma City Times editorial, and read it with much pleasure and interest.

I hope to see you at the Republican State Convention next Monday, and have a chat with you, if possible.

Sincerely yours,

George B. Schwabe, M.C.

Dear George:

It has been reported that 250,000 employees of the General Motors Company were eligible to vote on the question of whether or not a strike should be called. It seems that only approximately 100,000 elected to vote, the vote being approximately 6 to 1 for the strike. This leads to the thought that there is a great probability that the 150,000 more voters were not in favor of the strike. From other sources we get information which warrants the belief that less than one-half of the members of organized labor are in favor of the tactics and policies now being adopted by a large number of labor leaders.

Evidently the author of the enclosed editorial in the Oklahoma City Times of April 4, 1946, has the same idea. I call your attention to the last paragraph of the editorial, with the suggestion that it might be a good plan to incorporate a plank in the State Republican Platform expressing these views in clear and unmistakable language.

With the very kindest regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,

SOLON W. SMITH
